Reasons to visit Uttarakhand

Uttarakhand is the Devbhumi, meaning “Land of the Gods”. Caressed by the Himalayan ranges, the state is a center for hiking trails that stretch for miles and picturesque hill stations and adventure sports. When talking about Uttarakhand, two names usually stand out the most are Mussoorie and Nainital. The most famous hill stations in Northern India, the enchanting natural beauty and atmosphere of these places has attracted many tourists for years.

Nainital – the city of lakes

Nestled in Kumaon Hills, Nainital is a hill station occupying a steep forested valley around a unique, eye-shaped Naini Lake. Famously known as the ‘City of Lakes’, Nainital is liberally blessed with natural beauty and exudes a nostalgic charm of the early 19th century. Besides the natural wonders, there are many landmarks, monuments and religious shrines in the city worth visiting. Also places like Sattal, Naukuchiatal, Bhimtal, Ranikhet, Almora and many more such beautiful and mesmerizing places are nearby.

TASTE YOUR JOURNEY

Corbett – the wildlife experience

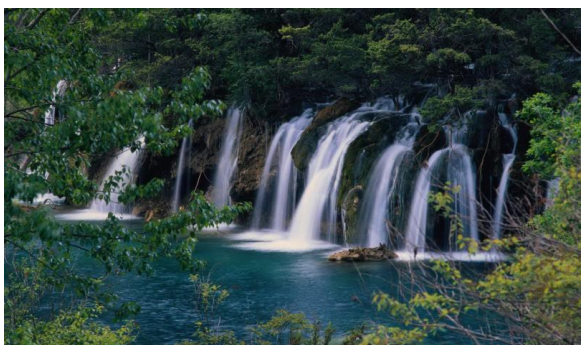

Blessed with gorgeous landscape including forests, rivers and hills outside the park, Corbett as a destination today is far bigger than the national park itself. Tourists coming to Corbett are not limited to real wildlife lovers only, and there is a range of fun and adventure activities that can be enjoyed.

Haridwar & Rishikesh – the gateway to char-dham

Haridwar and Rishikesh lie in the state of Uttarakhand and are very popular for ashrams, yoga centers, the river Ganga, their adventure sports and their calming effect. This is a perfect family destination for all ages as it offers both spiritual and adventure activities.

Mussoorie – the queen of hill stations

Mussoorie, with its green fields and varied flora and fauna, is well-known as the 'Queen of Hill Stations' in Uttarakhand. The awe-inspiring landscapes and breathtaking views are enough to charm anyone, and it is no wonder that it attracts many tourists all-round the year.
